OREGON'S NAVIGATOR.

OREGON'S NAVIGATOR.

Lieutehant-Commander Nicholson of the Oregon was next called, and began his recital of the story of the battle of July 3, which he had observed as navigator of the Oregon. He was, he said, on the deck of his vessel, and added: "Occupying the position I did during the day of the engagement, I necessarily saw considerable of it. The incidents of that day commenced about 9:30 o'clock, or five minutes before, when the first call to quarters had been sounded. These the Spanish ships were seen coming out of the harbor, were seen, in fact, by practically the whole crew at the same time. When the first ship started to go around the cry went up. There they go.' I looked toward the harbor and saw the first ship. Her bow was making a turn into the last reach of the harbor on her way out. She was followed in succession by the others. I went to my station, first on the bridge, then down to the coming others. I went to my station, first on the bridge, then down to the coming tower, and saw that the proper connections were made. In the mean time the signal had been sounded to general quarters, and by this time steam was coming up, all the boilers and blowers were going full tilt, and a few minutes afterward Capt. Clark came up. We turned the ship, going slowly at first, the speed increasing all the time, turned with starboard helm and started in toward the enemy. They came out at full speed, apparently much faster than we were going at this time. By the time we were straightened out well to the westward they were all ahead of us. The Iowa started in, and she, being to the westward of us, apparently got in us. The Iowa started in, and she, being to the westward of us, apparently got in closer to the enemy than we did, because we passed under her stern. A few minutes after that, on our course to westward, we passed under the stern of the Texas, apparently still in the water. I called Capt. Clark's attention to this. Of course, firing commenced on both sides at the time the first ship cleared the mouth of the harbor. We returned the fire at long range, probably three and a half' to four miles off at that point. When we crossed under the Texas's stern we saw the Jowa coming out on a course nearly parallel to a converging course with the Jowa coming out on a course nearly parallel to a converging course with ours. I noticed her a little abaft our starboard beam. Capt. Clark at the same time noticed her and called my attention to her and told me to look out to avoid a collision. No collision was very imminent, but we did change our helm and passed on. I did not see any more of the Iowa. After the ac-tion commenced we passed the Texas. The only ship then ahead of us was the Brooklyn. She was well off her acmappy the Brooklyn. She was well off her accustomed position, well off to the westward. All the Spanish ships had gotteronesses when the control of the cont chinist on board the Texas.

Lieutenant - Commander Nicholson told the story of the battle of July 3, as he saw it from the deck of the Oregon. He said the movement of the Oregon had not been controlled by signals from the Brooklyn, and he expressed the opinion that the Oregon was nearer the Colon than the Brooklyn was.

Mr. Hunley said that the port engines of the Texas had not been stopped during the battle of July 3.

From the line of examination relating to the fight of July 3, already pursuphing, we passed over the spot and suppling, we passed over the spot and suppling, we passed over the spot and supplings we passed over the spot and supplings we passed over the spot and supplings we passed over the spot and spot the fight of July 3, already pursuphing, we passed over the spot and

CHASE OF THE COLON.

In reply to questions by Mr. Rayner, the witness said he could not say posi-tively that he had seen the Brooklyn make her turn, but that he had seen her change her position. He had never seen the Brooklyn and the Texas when seen the Brooklyn and the Texas when they were closer together than a mile or a mile and a half. He also said that he did not remember any signal from the Brooklyn to the Oregon to use her 13-inch guns on the Colon.
"Did the Oregon use her 13-inch guns early in the action?" Capt. Lemly asked, as his first question on cross-wamination.

"Oh, yes," was the response. "But she stopped using them during the chase of the Colon as that vessel was so far away that to use them would have been a waste of ammunition." OREGON WAS NEAREST.

In response to another question by Capt. Lemly, Commander Nicholson said:

"I thought the Oregon was nearer the enemy during the chase than the Brooklyn, but the distance veried some-what. At one time the Brooklyn had apparently turned to head off a turn of the Colon toward Cape Crus.

have been here about a week and have not seen anything of them, or words to that effect, meaning the Spanish fleet?"

"No, sir; as I remember it he said: "They could not be here unless I knew it." In reply to Mr. Hanna the witness said he had observed the Spanish fleet as it came out of the harbor at Santiago: they were then in column order, three or four ship's lengths apart; that all ported their helms and turned to all ported their neims and turned to the westward, apparently with the in-tention of going ashore if necessary. During the early part of the engage-ment he had seen none of the Spanish vessels turning toward, any of the American ships and he was sure there "No, sir."
"Under the circumstances may you not have failed to hear all that Capt. Sigsbee said?"
"After hearing the conversation which I have given, Capt. Sigsbee and the commodore walked aft, so I could not hear what was said, and I went below." was no well-developed movement in that direction. Yet the smoke was dense and he could not be certain of

COURT'S INTERROGATIONS.

The court asked questions of Commander Nicholson as follows:

"Was the Oregon in her proper blockading position when the Spanish ships started out?"

"Practically, yes."

"What was her course with reference to the Morro?"

"About four miles distant, and a little castward to south of it."

"What was the distance between the blockading positions of the Oregon and Brooklyn?"

"From three to four miles in the day-

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Paith in the possibility of making a deal with M. Hutin for the purchase of the Panama Canal is wobbling considerably tonight. M. Hutin today had another conference with Admiral Walker, chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, and while he protested that he was prepared to make terms, he did not suggest them, but presented reasons why the United States ought to be willing to pay more for the canal property than he anticipates it is willing to pay.

M. Hutin did not, however, show to Admiral Walker that he could deliver title to the canal, nor did he attempt to explain what disposition has been made of the bonds issued years ago by the Panama company, at par and guaranteed by the French government. Those bonds are still outstanding, being owned by the French people, and they hold them on the ground that some day the French government, as indorser of the bonds, will be compelled to take them, up at their face value, with interest added. While they are outstanding, unless some definite arrangements bave been made by the French government for their redemption, they act as a lein upon the canal property, so that the Panama company cannot hy any possibility transfer title to if. When Admiral Walker asks M. Hutin about this phase of the case he gets no satisfactory answer.

Somehow, although nothing definite has developed yet, feeling is growing that this Panama scheme is being used for the purpose of blocking canal affairs. That course has been followed before, and if the Panama Canal can be got before Congress and played against the Nicaragua, complications and delay will result.

FOREIGNERS MUST BE USED. (BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Henry E. Cooper, Territorial Secretary and for several months prior to his departure for the United States, Acting Governor of Hawaii, has discussed with Secretary of Agriculture Wilson the conditions in the Territory. One of the main aims of Mr. Cooper's trip here is to acquaint the administration with the actual situation in Hawaii. In his conference with Secretary Wilson he emphasized the seriousness of the labor problem. cooper, Territorial Se conference with Secretary Wilson he emphasized the seriousness of the labor problem.

The natives are dying off rapidly, the mortality being in the neighborhood of forty deaths to the thousand, and foreign laborers are getting out of the country much more rapidly than they are coming in. The encouragement of Chiness labor, raid he, is regarded as the most promising solution and the Territorial government is anxious that large numbers of laborers shall come in from China.

The sugar-cane crop that shou'd have been harvested at the beginning of July, he said, is not yet off the field and will not be harvested before next month. The natives generally will not work. The coffee industry is languishing and many things that should be raised there have to be bought outside the islands.

Secretary Wilson informed Mr. Cooper of a report from the superintendent of the agricultural station in Honolulu, showing, among other things, that it costs 25 an acre to fertilize the cane crop in Hawail, and pointed out the big farm wage which has to be paid to farm laborers, viz.: 340 a month, including hoard, which is, approximately, 310 more than in this country. Mr. Cooper suggested that the average farm wage might be even greater.

RICHES AND RUSH PREDICTED.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the greatest gold rushes in history is predicted, with the Philippine Islands as the new Eldorado. Army officers, who have recently returned from Mindanao declare that the mineral richness of that island will soon be one of the wonders of the world. They say the valleys of the River Sita and its tributaries, with a total length of two or three hundred miles, are full of gold.

The natives go out with their rude washing implements and clean up from 50 cents to $3$ worth of gold in a day. Returning army officers bring back specimens of this gold, and report that according to the natives the precious mineral is found all through the valleys, which range from five to twenty miles in width. No American miners have as yet gone into the region, as the Taft government is debarred from issuing permits or franparred from issuing permits or franchises.

As soon as Congress takes off the ban of the Hoar amendment to the Spooner resolution, and gives the government authority to establish mining laws and arrange for titles to claims, it is predicted by those army officers that there will be a tremendous influx of miners from the United States, from South Africa, from Alaska and from all over the world,

They had no confirmation from official sources of the report, but this was true of the last affair of the kind, which happened at Balangiga.

The Ninth Infantry, which suffered there, was the same organization that engaged in the last fight at Bangajon, though in this case the company attacked is not unknown.

Inspection of the disposition made of the troops on the island of Samar shows that before the Balanging fight there were no less than thirty-eight separate posts. These were so disposed that supplies could be conveyed to the troops by water. Gen. Hughes has left Samar and gone to the Island of Cebu to recuperate, which accounts for the assumption of the command on Samar by Gen. Smith. Gen. Hughes was worn out and suffering from the effects of a severe fall received while chasing insurrectionists in the mountains of Samar.

New Executive of the Sun-kissed Territory a Former Rough Rider and Fighter, and Intimately Known by the President-A New Yorker.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The appointment of Alexander O. Brodie to be Governor of Arisona virtually was made a week ago, but was not announced till today. The new Territorial Executive is intimately known by the President, whom he succeeded as lieutenant-colonel of the Rough Riders, when the latter was promoted to the colonelcy of that noted regiment.

Col. Brodie went into the Spanish war as senior major of the regiment, commanding the Arisona squadron. At Guasimas he was shot in the arm, but returned to the regiment in time to take command at Montauk before the muster out. He is a New Yorker, born in St. Lawrence county, of that State, in 1849. In 1870 he graduated from West Point, and for seven years he served on the frontier in the First Cavalry. He resigned in 1877, to do engineering work in Arisona.

Latterly Col. Brodie has managed a rich Yavapai county mine, in which he is heavily interested. For a while he served as colonel of the First Regiment. National Guard of Arisona. Not a single hour was abated from his sentence. He had the good sense to leave Holloway Jail quietly, after refusing to take newspaper reporters into his confidence. It is probable that his first marriage will be annulled speedily by the courts, and that he will be left at liberty to remarry Mrs. Somerville legally, without the trouble of going to Nevada. It has been rumored from the outset that the first impulse for the prosecution of Earl Russell for bigamy came from court, but there is no proof that the King interested himself in the matter."

CONDITION AND NEEDS OF THE ARMY SHOWN TO CONGRESS.

Many Important Re-Made by Gen. Corbin-Losses from All Causes During Past Fiscal Year-Philippine Force Rapidly Reduced.

WASHINGTON. Oct. 18.—The annual report of Maj.-Gen. Henry C. Corbin, Adjutant-General of the army, comprehensively reviews the work, condition and needs of the military establishment. Gen. Corbin submits a table to show that the army in the Philippines is to be reduced by expired enlistments at the rate of about two thousand a month from now until June, 1902. The question whether the regiments thus depleted in strength are to remain so, or be recruited to their full roster, he says, is one requiring very earnest consideration, for if the latter is contemplated, it is already time to begin special recruiting.

The losses from all causes in the regular army and the volunteers from July 1, 1800, to June 30, last, totalled 16,924 officers and men in the former, and 8910 in the latter. The casualties to the troops in the Philippines since the date of the first arrival, June 30, 1898, to June 30, last, were 115 officers and 2378 men killed and 183 officers and 2448 men wounded.

Gen. While a great many excellent young men have come into the service as officers under the present law, which opens the way for commissions to enlisted men who have had two years' service, Gen. Corbin says there have been a number of others who have entered the army as officers in this way who are not up to the requirements of their rank.

Gen. Corbin believes that the army transport service on the Pacific is costing the government much more thas would, for the latter would have the advantage denied to the government, of from the orient of the theory of the service of the covernment, that Congress with safety could often in the Orient. Three affidavits were produced by the attorneys who are defending the conduct of Judge Noyes. The first of these was made in June of last year, while Mr. Hume was in Nome, and was sent to Attorney Pillsbury in this city. It related the entire story of the corruption of the Federal Court by McKensie and his followers, and the statements therein contained afe substantially the same as given by Mr. Hume in his testimony. The second affidavit, purporting to have been signed by Mr. Hume, was a statement of the circumstances attending the appointment of Judge Noyes of a receiver at Mr. Hume's request. Sacramento Electric Corporation Seeks to Deprive Prison Directors of Use of Power from That Stream-Armed Guards Now on Duty There.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES ! SACRAMENTO, Oct. 18.—[Exclusive Disratch.] The Sacramento Electric Gas and Rallway Company, the corporation supplying light and power to the city of Sacramento, the town of Folsom and much of the surrounding country, has applied to the Superior Court of Sacramento for a permanent injunction preventing the State Board of Prison Directors and Warden Thomas Wilkinson of Folsom Prison from breaking down or interfering with the headgates regulating the water supply from which the power of the company is drawn.

for running the machinery and lighting plant of Folsom Prison will be practically shut off and the State will suffer for thousands of dollars.

A temporary injunction against the board of prison directors and Warden Wilkinson was granted by Judge P. J. Shields of Sacramento on August 4, and the hearing of the application for a permanent injunction will take place in the near future. The trouble leading up to the suit is of recent occurrence. On September 26 the head gates controlling the company's water power were closed by order of the corporation and Folsom prison was practically denied the use of the source of the power, and light.

At midnight on September 27 a force of prison guards, armed with rifles, under telegraphic instructions from the boad of prison directos, went to the location of the gates, and, after driving away the employée of the corporation with their guns, broke the chains and locks holding the gates and threw them open so as to let the water through.

The next day the employée of the chains and locks holding the gates and threw them open so as to let the water through.

The next day the employes of the corporation returned to the gates and finding the guards gone, they again closed them and fastened them with chains and padlocks. On the night of September 29 the guards again put in an appearance and after forcibly driving away the employes of the corporation, once more burst open the gates.

A shotzun guard was then placed at the scene, with orders to shoot any person attempting to close the gates. The legal proceedings began by the corporation followed.

It is alleged that the plaintiff must at all times have at least 15,000 cubic feet of water per minute to pass through the gates, and that any less flow is practically useless. Sixty thousand cubic feet of water is alleged to be necessary during busy periods. Unless the gates are closed at certain hours, it is claimed, such a flow cannot be secured, and, as Warden Wilkinson threatens to conjune breaking open the gates if they are closed, an injunction against him and the board of prison directors is prayed for.

The Pilot Was Admonished by the Captain, but Answered, "I know What I am Doing"-Now the World Knows What He Did.

HALIFAX (N. s.) Qct. 18.—On Pietres Ledges, a mile and a half from Low Point, on the shore of the east coast of Cape Breton, lies the big steamer Manchester Shipper of the Manchester line. She is fast aground and it will be difficult to float her. Two tugs were unable to budge her. Her ballast will be removed and another attempt made at once to get her off. The Manchester Shipper left Havre, France, October 5 for Montreal with 213 steerage and nine salon presengers. BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS-P.M.1

with 213 steerage and nine salon prassengers.

She ran snort of coal, and Capt. Goldsworthy decided to put into Sydney to coal. Low Point was sighted at 10 o'clock ast night, and a few minutes later Pilot Ratchford boarded her and took her in charge. The night was dark and clear, though raining, and the different lights could easily be distinguished. The pilot was only on board ten minutes, when a colloquy is said to have occurred. Capt. Goldsworthy said: "I am afraid that you are getting too near the shore."

"I know what I am doing," was the pilot's response.

The captain again remonstrated with the pilot a few minutes later, and this time the pilot was about to heed the captain's warning, but before he could do so the big ship was hard and fast aground. Her crew of forty-three men and all the passengers, with one exception, are still on board.

Steamer Arrives With Very Large Cargo of Silver Ore for Pueblo Smelter Value Three and a Half Millions.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)
DENVER, Oct 18.—[Exclusive Disatch.] Three and a half million dolpatch.] Three and a half million doi-lars is the value of a shipment of silver ore from Chile to the Pueblo smelter. The steamship Pinedone, which brought the ore to Galveston, had not only the distinction of bringing to this country one of the largest cargoes of silver ore, but also of being the first steamer to use the Southern Pacific's new docks at Galveston. The Pinedone carried at Galveston. The Pinedone carried 58,095 sacks of ore. It required 215 cars to transport this ore to Pueblo, and the freight bill was $50,000. There were 4800 tons, and the duty was $30 a ton The ore ran $700 to the ton.

The Oregon was to the right of the Iowa, and the Indiana inshore to the eastward, with the New York in the distance. I remember looking for the flagship, and saw her seven or eight miles toward Siboney."

"Not when they were offering any active reasstance; she did as the Spanish vessels turned to go ashore."
"When the Oregon changed her direction toward the Brooklyn, had the Brooklyn completed her turn."
"I am under the impression that she had; she must have done so."
"What was the position of the Oregon when she turned with starboard heim during the battle off Santiago?"
"She was lying still in the water, and we turned to head off the Spanish fleet. We overtook all but the Colon very quickly."

DR. DEVALIN TESTIFIES.

Dr. Devailn was then excused and Capt. John L. Hannum was called. He was the chief engineer on board the Brooklyn, and of the Flying Squadron during the Cuban campaign. Capt. Hannum's testimony, aside from repliet to questions by the court, related entirely to the condition of the coller Marrimac May 37 and 38. He said that on the foremon of the former date Commodore Schlev had ordered him to go aboard the coller and he had done so. He found her intermediate vaive gear entirely disabled. He also said that while the Merrimac was entirely helpless, her horse power was reduced one-third and that she was able to robble along only at the rate of four or nive knots an hour. The court asked Capt. Hannum the following questions:

"Whath was the Brooklyn's most economical speed and how much coal perday did she burn at that speed while you were her chief engineer?"

"Her economical speed, I think, was about ten knots, burning from seventy to geventy-lave tons of coal a day."

"Were the fires laid ready for lighting under all bollers not in use by the Brooklyn' I not, why not?"

"I think the furnaces were coaled. I am pretty sure they were ready to throw a shovelful of coal on them and start them."

and steam was on in three boilers."

Mr. Rayner: Can you remember what went on in the engine rooms during the action with respect to increahing the speed of the ship?

"Every effort was made to economise steam and get the most power out of it—the most turns of the engine. There was a steady increase in the number of the turns of the engines from the beginning to the end."

"Were the engines at any time stopped, reversed or slowed?"

"The engines were not at any time during the battle stopped or reversed. I have no recollection of their ever having been slowed. They certainly were not stopped nor reversed.

BROOKLYN'S SPEED

At Mr. Rayner's request the witness

At Mr. Rayner's request the witness presented a written memorandum which he had prepared, showing the speed of the Brooklyn during the day of battle and indicating a gradual increase from eleven and one-half to fourteen knots per hour. The memorandum was based on the revolutions of the propeller. In response to ques-

The court asked the following questions:

"When were the fires laid in the boliers that were not in use when the battle began on the morning of July 3?"

"The two after boliers had no water in them. These fires were not laid until after the battle call was sounded, but the other boliers not in use did have fires laid. As to when they were laid id on not know, but the boliers that had water, in them had their furnaces charged, and those without water were kept unchanged.

ENSIGN CRONIN.

Col. Carter was then excused and W.

The Scorpion came back and com-municated a megaphone message to the Brooklyn. The substance of this message was that the Nashville was returning to Key West broken down; that the Cincinnati and Vesuvius were patrolling Yucatan Channel and that Capt. we turned to head off the Spanish fleet, we overtook all but the Colon very and we convertook all but the Colon very and we convertook all but the Colon very but the Dr. Charles M. Devalin followed Dr. Charles M. Devalin followed Commander Nicholson. He said that he had been medical officer on board the Brooklyn, and had observed the battle of July 3 from the forecastle. He gave a bilef description of the battle, saying he had been present when Yeoman Ellis was killed, and that he had observed Commodore Schley during the entire engagement.

"His conduct and bearing." said the witness, "were all that could be expected. He seemed to know what he was about, and to be doing all that he wished to do. He was in perfect control of the situation."

In response to questions from Capt. Lemly the witness said that he had heard Commodore Schley give the order. "Helm hard sport," and had heard Commodore Schley give the order. "Helm hard sport," and had heard no one else give it. In response to a question, he said that he had time heard no collequy or altercation concerning this order.

CARPENTER WARFORD.

When Mr. Cronin was excused
J. H. Warford, who was carpenter on the Brooklyn, was called. Describing the battle July 3 he said that during the chase he had seen the order was passed by a marine orderly.

"Stand ready to ram."

He also said that later, and during the chase, he had seen the Viscays turn as if to ram the Brooklyn, before the former went ashore. He said he had made a personal examination of the Brooklyn after the battle, and had found that she had been etruck thirty times. Mr. Warford said that Commodore Schley's conduct and bearing during the battle were that of a fearless officer. He said during the engagement the turning tank of the Brooklyn filled with water.

LIEUT. WELLS TESTIFIES When Lieut. Ryan had concluded leut. B. W. Wells, Jr., who was Com-When Lieut. Ryan had concluded, Lieut. B. W. Wells, Jr., who was Commodore Schley's flag lieutenant during the Cuban campaign, was called. Lieut. Wells gave a detailed account of the entire campaign, beginning with the departure from Hampton Roads, the stay at Cientuegos, the cruise to Santiago, the retrograde movement, the blockade of Santiago, the bombardment of the Colon and the battle of Santiago.

Describing the blockade of Cientuegos, the witness spoke especially of the appearance there of the British ship Adula on May 23, which he said, brought a war bulletin from Kingston, containing the information that the Santiago, but had subsequently left. He remembered the meeting with the scout boats, St. Paul, lale and Minneapolls, on the evening of the 26th, and also the visit at that time made to the flagship by Capt. Sigsbee and the signal to return to Key West via the Yucatan channel.

YOUR KIDNEYS

If your kidneys are out of order-weak or torpid-you don't feel like going to work when you get up in the morning. Your back is lame and sore and aches and your sleep has not been refreshing. Failure of the kidneys properly to perform their functions often makes a failure of life itself-it weakens all the energies.

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA contains the best and safest substances for strengthening and toning the kidneys and builds up the whole system.

"My father was troubled with his back for years, but since taking Hood's Sarsaparilla he is relieved. My mother had a liver and kidney trouble and says nothing ever did her as much good as Hoed's."—WILLIAM H. KNIGHT, Pine, La.

"I had pains in my back and head, could not sleep at night, and when I got up in the morning I felt worse than I did the night before. I felt tired and did not care to do any work. I tried different kinds of medicine without getting relief until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Now I can sleep at night and get up feeling rested and able to do my work. I attribute my cure entirely to Heed's Sarsaparilla." Mus. J. N. Punny, care H. S. Copeland, Pike Road, Ala.

LEMLY AGAIN SORE.

Coming to the bombardment of the Colon on May 31, the witness undertook to quote from memory a publication by the Navy Department which had, he said, given him the impression that the land batteries there were manned by large guns. Capt. Lemly objected, saying the publication itself should be produced. Some controversy between coursel ensued and Mr. Rayner spake of the objection as a mere frivol. To this Capt. Lemly responded:

"I object to this criticism. Counsel has been repeatedly criticising and throwing slurs on the officers of the court. I beg that it be stopped. It is unbecoming in a court of this character. It is extremely unusual. May it please the court, we are making history here. How will these things read in history, even if they de come from the Attorney-General of the great State of Maryland. They are unworthy at a court of the dignity which this court possesses. It has not been done once, but repeatedly."

Mr. Hanna indorsed this statement, but Mr. Rayner made no responsamerely asking the witness to omit the reference to the publication and proceed upon Capt. Lemiy's assurance that the original would be produced.

The city of Chicago would seem to be the best place for the holding of the "red" convention. There was a gathering of anarchists in Chicago several years ago, and four or five of the delegates, for good and sufficient reasons, falled to attend any of the subsequent meetings. Chicago has not by any means forgotten the experience which she gained upon that occasion. Chicago is as well prepared, perhaps, as any city in the country to entertain any city in the country to entertain archist guests and make things in-resting for them. In the wild scramis among American cities for the oner of the coming convention, it say be set down as tolerably certain hicago will not be likely to come out second best.

Not Seeking a Place.

TROPICO, Oct. 18.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In your last Sunday's Times, in an editorial, "An Unfounded Compiaint," your informant does me an injustice when you conclude that I "recently applied to the Southern Pacific Company for an appointment as an immigration agent." I never applied for such an appointment for myself. More than a year ago, in correspondence with Mr. McCormick of that company concerning increased efforts to colonise California with more agriculturists, I suggested the appointment of a friend who has had long experience in that business, and made a success of it. Later Mr. Hays requested that said gentleman make application to Mr. McCormick for the position, and I learn that plains of work are being discussed with the applicant. In my first letter to Mr. McCormick I said that I was not seeking a place for myself, and would not under any circumstances accept one. I am quite contented to remain in beautiful Tropico and avoid the great care and responsibilities of colonization.

But the facts remain that under the special efforts of A. Bass of the Northern Pacific Railway thousands of good, earnest, law-abiding farmers have been settled in North Dakota, and through Mr. Bock Idaho is getting a large number of farmers, and Washington, through special agents, who go to the homes of farmers in the East and explain the country's productions, is getting tens by thousands of desirable citiess.

When eighteen carloads of producers are taken from Virginia and Indiana at one time to North Dakota, it means more effort than simply sending pictures and words on paper to people. It is this system of work which I desire to see made effective by the California roads, not for place, not for money for myself, but to secure more good citisens, that our merchants may sell more goods, and our bankers handle more money.

A project of this kind is possible and feasible only where a vast tract of land, with its watershed, can be brought under private control. Fortunately, such cases are comparatively rare. Irrigation by private enterprise, on a large scale, is very apt to trench upon the water rights of property owners other than those directly interested. The only practicable plan for the realization of the highest possibilities of irrigation, as The Times has often pointed but, is the adoption of a comprehensive system by the general government, by which the arid lands can be systematically reclaimed, with the utmost possible economy of water and of expenditure. It is only a question of time when such a system will be adopted. Each year brings us nearer to the realization of these higher possibilities of irrigation in the beaution. In the sarty part of the last control providence was a single property of the state of vermont, and held the position of time when such a system will be adopted. Each year brings us nearer to the realization of these higher possibilities of national irrigation.

TUCSON (Ariz.) Oct. 17.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Possibly you are not posted as to conditions in this "The Ancient Pueblo." Republicans and Democrats are about equally divided, the balance being slightly in favor of the Republicans, as evidenced by our Republican Mayor and Councit. There are two daily local papers, both bitterly Democratic. One is edited by a man who served part of a term as Republican Attorney-General, and for part of another team as Democratic Governor. In both offices he was superseded, or, in the popular vernacular, was "fired," and his services in those exalted positions were dispensed with. The other is edited by a little Irishman, with a rich brogue, strongly flavored with bad whisky, and of the south of Ireland. In figure and appearance he would make an ideal Bacchus. He is bright, witty, and fairly well educated, but in his editorial writings will not hesitate to-misrepresent if he can gain a point by so doing.

Prior to the death of our great and good President, every issue of both of flease sheets contained dirty flings, insinuating or openly claiming that President McKiniey was a mere puppet, placed in his exalted position by Hanna and other moneyed men; that he had to do their bidding, and was wenal in the extreme.

Both then and now they have taken special, pains to foster and encourage the antagonism of labor against capital. All through the Pittsburgh and San Francisco union strikes, great headlines daily called attention to the inquitous combination of money to crush and degrade honest and virtuous labor—"yellow journalism" of the very worst type; regular breeders and encourages of anarchy; and thoroughly unpatriotic. Such are the Tucson dailies.

Fortunately for us—Republicans—the Los Angeles Times has a larger circulation here than any other paper. So we can enjoy the daily pleasure of reading good sound Republican doctrine.

Both local papers make a great pretense of giving their readers very extense of giving their readers very extense. The pipe of peace between American and British tobacco trusts has gone out, and American firms have started in to make things smoke over in Eng-land. The Tucson Press Scored.

culation here than any other paper. So we can enjoy the daily pleasure of reading good sound Republican doctrine.

Both local papers make a great pretense of giving their readers very extended Associated Press news, but sheeliems, which are dated from all parts of the world, are the product of the scissors and dating stamp, not of the electric wire; and the much-abused Times is largely drawn upon.

Of late the Irishman has made several bitter or virulent attacks on the old soldiers of the Civil War; a few days sign he made the bold assertion that a larger number of Confederate soldiers died in northern prisons, excusing the deaths in the latter by the assertion that the Confederate had not the food to give their prisoners, and consequently were not to blame for their wholesale stayvation.

All of this, I, of course, knew to be false, but I at once wrote to a friend in Washington to procure for me the official figures, giving the number of prisoners and deaths on both sides. I have just received a reply. The official figures are: Rebel prisoners, 474,169; deaths, 25,774, or 5½ per cent. Union prisoners, in the hands of Confederates, 212,666. Thus far the records are clear and accurate, but how many of the Union soldiers died in the foul and infamous prison pens of the South will never be accurately known on account of the scanty and imperfect records; sad even those from only a portion of the prisons. The deaths that have been recorded and are thus definitely known number 29,25, or 14 per cent.; but the estimates of the War Department make the total deaths of Union soldiers over 71,000, or 23½ per cent. Out of a total of 46,000 confined in Andersonville, 14,000 died in the four months from May 1 to September 1, 1864.

The excuse offered by this Irish firebrand that the Confederates had not the food to give these poor fellows, and that their death by starvation was unavoidable, is simply ridiculous, as was so forcibly demonstrated when Sherman made his march to the sea, and found plenty of surplus food in the cou subject, that has been thrashed over and over again and again by just such an archistic demagogues as this man with the Corkonian brogue and the euphonious name of O'Brien Moore, but if his impudent falsehoods pass uncontradicted there are many of the readers of his dirty sheet who will believe that he knows whereof he speaks, and that he tells the truth.

The gallant men who fought under the Confederate banner do not countenance such statements. The men who wore the blue and the men who wore the gray are proud of the speaks and the men who wore the gray are proud of the statements.

The Plymouth League, recently or-ganized among the men of Plymouth Congregational Church, gave a social yesterday evening in the auditorium of the church, corner Twenty-first street and Lovelace avenue. The league was organized for social purposes and for the advancement of the church inter-the edvancement of the church interests.

The entertainment was the first of a series planned by the men for the winter season, and was successfully carried out in every detail without the same sort of organization among the women of the church as the Plymouth League. The church was handsomely decerated with palms, ferns, chrysantermans, roses and carantions. Overhead a canopy was formed of smilax and pepper boughs.

F. G. Gillette had charge of the estectainment and F. W. Underwood arranged the musical and literary programme, which consisted of songs by a quartette, mandolin solos by Paul Kirk, and two recitations by Mr. Underwood. At the close of the programme progressive conversation furnished amusement for an hour, followed by refreshments.

The church was thronged with members of the church and congregation, more than two hundred guests being present.

FURS.

Unprecedented Values

An Important Announcement.

Easily the greatest distribution of fine furs in the history of our house starts here this morning. Every single piece in the sale is new and specially selected. The quality of skins used in the making of some of the garments cannot be duplicate in any other Los Angeles store at any price.

It is only by the most fortunate and direct connections with the principal sources of supply that such values are possible. Then, we're not adding the regular Furrier's profit, but a very small percentage. Just enough to pay for handling.

G. Anderson, a sealman of the United. States cruiser Philadelphia, and R. Rodgers, who served a term of enlistment in the navy, were arrested late Thursday night and booked at the Police Station "on suspicion." Several citizens on Alameda street had reported to the police that they had seen two men, one of taem in a sailor's uniform, stand up a drunk man near the corner of Alameda and Commercial streets and search his pockets, taking some money. Officers searched through that district for the two men and finally found them in a house of prostitution. They were placed under arrest and an day yesterday the police tried to find the man who had been robbed. Their search was not successful and they were obliged to release the prisoners last night, after showing them to the night watch and warning them to leave the city.

GLIMPSE OF CONVENTION.

A Times representative called last evening on the Rev. B. W. R. Tayler, rector of St. John's Church, to get his impressions of the late general convention in San Francisco. Mr. Tayler said:

"The general convention of the Episcopal church contains some of the ablest and brainlest of the clergy and laity of the church in the United States. It is a distinct advantage to any man to be associated with such a body of men, to exchange words and ideas, and to meet them in friendly council and in debate. There were old men, who had made their mark in the church: young man, who are now making their impress, and men in the full vigor of life, whose names are household words.

"The debates, especially those on the Huntington amendment, and on the proposed canon on marriage and divorce, were away the most brilliant debates I have ever listened to. The Huntington amendment was a proposed amendment to the constitution, providing that congregations not in union with the church, wishing to put themselves under the direction of a vote. It immediately bobbed up again, however, in a fuller form for final action three years hence. The House of Bishops refused to sanction it in the original form proposed, and their amendment of it leaves it rather a colorless affair. Whether it will be worth fighting for three years hence remains to be seen. The bishops practically claim the power now which it is proposed to give them by this amendment. Dr. Huntington's speech will ever linger as a memory of the House of Deputies. It was the most brilliant speech in debate I have ever heard.

House of Deputies. It was the most brilliant speech in debate I have ever heard.

"The question of marriage and divorce was settied in favor of the present law. A very able commission had been appointed three years ago to draw up a new canon on this subject, and this new canon was iron-clad in its provisions. The clergy were to be forbidden to marry any divorced persons whatsoever, where as now the law of the church permits the clergy to remarry the innocent party in a divorce granted on the ground of adultery. This question was debated for nearly three days, and was one of the most hotly-contested debates of the session. It resulted in an overwheiming victory for the supporters of the old standard. "The proposed change of the name of the church be American Calholic' instead of 'Protestant Catholic.' The inemorial was referred to the Committee on the Prayer Book. That committee on the Prayer Book. That committee on the American Calholic instead of 'Protestant Catholic.' The inemorial was referred to the Committee on the Prayer Book. That committee on the Prayer Book. That committee on the calendar, or docket, and on the calendar, or docket, and on the last day but one, came up for discussion in its regular order. The House of Deputies instantly showed its colors. Some sided with the memorial, some opposed it. However, by a narrow vote, it was agreed to concur with the House of Bishops in the appointment of a joint commission to take the whole subject into consideration and report at the next general convention whether a change of name is expedient or not.

Dueling With Tallow Bullets.

Dueling With Tallow Bullets.

There is something intensely amusing in the new wrinkle taught by Dr. Davilliers to the Lingue des Patriotes, composed principally of those famous bloodless duelists of France, at whom the world has been laughing these thirty years. He teaches the believers in the code how to shoot at each other with real pistols in a businesslike way, using tallow bullets and a small charge of powder. This is to accustom students of dueling to gase with equanimity down the cold barrel of a revolver. (I believe revolvers are now used in duels.) The face is covered with a fencing mask and the eyes are protected by thick goggles. Old clothes save the body, except from the grease of the bullet. The fact of actually shooting at each other and hitting some tender spot adds spice to the practice and the prospect is excellent for a wide spread of the wrinkle on the French physician. The question naturally arises—why not use tallow bullets in actual duels, with the contestants naked above the waist; [Victor Smith in New York French

ROOSEVELT'S GREATNESS.

Glowing Words of Appreciation From Col. Themas Fitch Before the Hawaiian G.A.R.

Following are notable words concerning President Roosevelt culled from a speech by Col. Thomas Fitch before the George de Long Post, G.A.R., at Fawaa, H. I., in response to the toast. The President of the United States:

The President of the United States:

The proverb which says that some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them, may be questioned. It is doubtful whether a man who is not born great can ever achieve greatness, for if fame be thrust upon a man of common nature he will be apple to contradict the proverb by proving unequal to the occasion. I doubt if circumstances or accident ever made a great man. They may develop latent genius, but God Alimghty enjoys a monopoly of its creation.

Theodore Roosevelt is a leader of men, leading not merely by superior power, but by superior moral qualities. Men follow him because he impresses them with the idea that his own promotion is not his first care. His thoughts take direction from self-mariants are to be found poised with such perfectness and stractness the poetical Former City Attorney Walter Hans spoke on behalf of the protestants.

Frankenfield asked him if, in his opinion, the Los Angeles Lighting Company could put up a gas plant on the adjoining lot if it desired. Attorney Hans aid he thought it could.

D. M. McGarry made the final ples for the property owners. He said the system was poing to start a nursery. To others he said that he proposed to build cottages on the lots. Former City Attorney Walter Hans spoke for the property owners. He said the proposed to build cottages on the lots. Former City Attorney Walter Hans spoke for the protestant. He said that from previous experience he knows the impossibility of enforcing an agreement to fill gravel pits. While the contractor buried two feet of the horse and left the rest above ground.

At the conclusion of his talk the vote was taken.

If the new company had first secured a franchise it is safe to say that the attitude of all the municipal efforces would be entirely different from what it is teday. There is a well-defined suspicion among commissioners and Councilmen that the company is seeking to install a plant under the constitutional right that provides for the use of the streets for the distribution of illuminating materials. When the plant has once been installed it is feared that the company will find some means of evading the proposes to burn oil, which when properly used causes no smoke. In other respects to thought the excavation could not be classed as objectionable. Jensen was followed by his at the contractor's bond or to force the filling of the pit.

The Council here passed an ordinance that before a permit to dig in the streets is granted the applicant munt make affidiers hold that this ordinance cannot be enforced and that it will not operate as a bar to the operation of the first of the ordinance of the old gas company. SITE FOR HOSPITAL.

C. H. Girdlestone yesterday withdrew his objection to the establishment of a free consumptive infirmary south of Elysian Park. After mutual explagations it was found that he was minitaken in the proposed location of the hospital. The petition of Dr. W. Jamis Barlow, who is at the head of this philanthropic movement, was considered by the board. The city is asked to grade a road leading from the Sunset boulevard, entered the property and plant shade trees thereon. Dr. Barlow and Dr. LeMoyne Wills spoke in favor of the project. The board took the matter under consideration and will visit the grounds some time next week.

If the recommendation of the Board of Public Works is approved by the Council on Monday, Buena Vista street will be shorn of its glory. A petition asking that the name of the street from the north entrance to the Broadway tunnel to Pasadena avenue be changed to "Broadway," was favorably considered. This will lengthen Broadway from Main street to Pasadena avenue, in East Los Angeles. Much surprise has been expressed by President Powers and other members of the Council that the legislative body has the arbitrary power to change the name of a street without consulting the property owners. But the power exists, and it seems that Broadway will soon extend from Main street to the focultion will be introduced in the Council on Monday by the board to the Whittler reform school has just re-ceived its first Porto Rican inmate. He is 10 years old, and his name is Gabriel Santiago. Never was a boy so giad to be committed to a reformatory as was Gabriel yesterday, when Judge Smith made the order stowing him away for eleven long years of training and dis-cipline.

eleven long years of training and dis-cipline.

Young Gabriel belonged to the second immigration of Porto Ricans that, passed through Los Angeles some time ago en route to Honolulu, as a consign-ment of common laborers for planta-tion work. It will be remembered that these quasi-slave expeditions comprised men, women and children. At Indio Gabriel got off the train for some pur-pose, and in a moment he was left be-hind. Ten years old, and alone on a pose, and in moment he was left behind. Ten years old, and alone on a vast desert!

But the boy is intelligent, and was not afraid. Gradually he worked his way into San Bernardino, and found an uncie, but soon came on to Los Angeles. Although not yet a dozen years old, he reads both English and Spanish, and is quite proficient in the latter.
In San Bernardino he added to his accomplishments by learning to ride the bicycle. In Los Angeles he was arrested by the police for stealing one—a Tribune, worth $36, and the property of Charles Rampage.

"Why did you steal the wheel?"
asked Judge Smith.

"Because I was tired," came the answer through Interpreter Queirolo. "I had been scattering posters and intended to return it after a little ride."
The boy says his father is dead, and his mother, with a sister and brother, is now in Hawaii.

Before his arrest he was domiciled in the Newsboy's Home.

Two Lurid Jachers, Who Put Phos-phorous into the Pocket of a Work-man, in Serious Trouble—Seneratows

Down on the hobo corner they couldn't see how Kelly ate regularly and paced a tireless beat from one end of the cochtail routs to the other, wetting his whistle in every saloon on both sides of the street, yet never worked. The copper couldn't see, either, so he sent Kelly in for a vag; and the judge couldn't see, so he settled the case of Kelly.

"He never works and he never has any money, but he eats right along and gets drunk every night," explained the policeman to the court. The officer said he suspected Kelly of "steering drunks." He told how Kelly is always to be seen in company with some old fellow half-seas over and money in his pocket. "He must get the price in some way without working," said the policeman. When they asked Kelly what he had to say, Kelly's eyes assumed a faraway expression, and Kelly said, "judgmatically:"

"As regards to steering drunks around, I don't think it's right."

Then the court had a word or two to say to Mr. Kelly. This is what the court said; "Sixty days, Mr. Kelly."

Their Troubles to Court. Their Troubles to Court.

Señoras Josefa Sepulveda and Amada R. Larraguibal have transferred the scene of their sociable family rows from Sonoratown, where they sat comfortably on their own deorsteps and cast invidious remarks and cuss words across the street at each other, to the Police Court.

In one of the most recent of their respective matches, the neighbors called in the police.

The two women—both buxon and evidently well-to-do Spanish women—were arrested and charged with disturbing the peace. They were arraigned in Justice Morgan's court yesterday, to the great edification and delight of Sonoratown.

Means to Good English.

[New York Tribune:] Any one who comes in contact with the most ignorant of the immigrant class in this city soon realizes that the education that is derived from books is only a very small part of what they need. Teach them to read and write English, and they are little changed, except to bacome rather more self-important; but teach them to wash, and they are different beings. One teacher of immigrants had this so armly imprinted on her mind that she would look at her large English class and sigh hopelessly as she tried to plan how grammar and the art of bathing could be taught together.

One day she had an inspiration. She made a little speech to her class on elocution. She said that to speak good English a clear pronunciation was indispensable, and a clear pronunciation necessitated a good deal of care of the teeth and so on. Then she wound up by saying that she would like to have the whole class come up to her house to listen to lectures on elocution.

This done, she secured a lively young elocutionist and expisined her purpose. "I don't care," she said, "whether you teach elocution or not. At least three out of the six lectures I want you to give must deal entirely with personal cleanliness. Drag it in by the hair of its head, but get it in somehow."

The elocutionist liked the idea. The audience of thirty or forty foreigners was most attentive. This was to them a new gate to success. It appeared

The class returned to its lessons on grammar much improved. Hands were cleaner, teeth brighter; so the teacher felt repaid. But Goldberg did not come back—patient, industrious, cheerful Goldberg—and she wondered what had happened. Some two or three weeks later he appeared, still patient, but with an air of subdued triumph and somehow oddly changed. The teacher velcomed him and asked why he had not appeared before.

"Always busy," he explained.

"You trying to be able to speak good English," she explained, and suddenly showed by an expansive smile what was the change that the teacher had noted. His teeth were simply aggressive in their brilliancy.

explorers," remarked Waiter Weilmans of this city today. Weilman is an excellent authority on Polar matters. He, it will be recalled, has twice led Polar expeditions, once in the Northeast Land, an island of the Spitzbergen Archipelago, and once in Francis Joseph Land, where he spent a year. "This misconception," continued Mr. Weilman, "is traditional; it comes from the early time when Franklin was lost somewhere in the northern part of this continent, from the unfortunate misunderstanding and poor provision which led to the Greely dis-

"It is true that when the Peary Arctic Society of New York sent the Eric to Greenland this summer, she was called a relief ship, but as a matter of fact, no relief or rescue was needed in any sense. Peary was thoroughly able to take care of himself through the arrangements which he had himself made before leaving civilization. The modern explorer before entering the Arctic waste makes arrangements for a ship or ships to come after him, or to bring him new supplies at stated times. These ships are really ferryboats which cross the intervening waters at specified periods to bring back the explorer if he is ready to come, or to carry him the provisions and outfit which he has himself ordered, if he desired to stay longer. An exploring party has been lest in the Arctic regions in twenty years.

"As an illustration of present methods, Mr. Jackson, the Englishman who spent three years in Francis Joseph Land, under the direction of Mr. Harmsworth, the London editor, and who explored the southern part of that archipelago, had his ship come out every year to bring his supplies and carry back news. The Duke of Abruzzi, who spent one winter in Francis Joseph Land, and whose second in command, Capt. Cagni, made the farthest north, had also made arrangements for a ship to come after him the second summer. This was the arrangement in my own expedition to Francis Joseph Land in 1898-9. It should be understood that it is only the months of July and August, and perhaps the early part of September that ships can navigate the seas which lie between these northernmost linds and the

I thought nothing more of this allusion till some weeks afterward, when I received a letter from Mr. Harmsworth, the editor of the Daily Mail, with whom I had very pleasant personal relations. He took me to task for having printed that half jocular paragraph, and told he that but for it he would have given me the Windward. He said he had decided to offer me a present of the ship for my forthcoming expedition, but that he was so provoked when he read that sneering paragraph about the English masses toat he changed his plans, and should give it to Peary.
